

A Book for Every Patriot

NATIONAL ANTHEMS.

And Other Songs of Freedom of the Various Countries of the World

Compiled by R H PRABHU,

(Asst Editor, "The Bombay Chronicle")

With a Foreword by H C. Horniman, Editor-in Chief,
"The Bombay Sentinel"

OPINIONS.

It is an excellent collection of Patriotic songs and will I am sure be widely read in this country Sir Mahamad Iqbal.

I do not know of any similar publication and the collection is unique Mr D. G. Horniman.

This is probably the only book of its kind "The Pioneer"
The attempt is laudable and the publication is supremely opportune "Amrita Bazar Patrika"

NOTICE.

The Publishers beg to give notice that while every precaution has been taken to prevent errors occurring in the "INDIAN WHO'S WHO", it must be distinctly understood that they will not be held responsible for any consequences whatever arising from inaccuracies should such be found to exist.

The "INDIAN WHO'S WHO" is, however, (allowing for changes while printing), as nearly correct as anything of the kind for perfect accuracy where changes are occurring almost daily being unattainable.

 PREFACE
 प्रस्तावना लेट. मुं. १९५०

While presenting to the public this very first effort of the "THE INDIAN WHOS WHO", it must be stated that it is not claimed that it is complete. I painfully realise that there are several hundreds of persons in India or associated with her in one way or the other, who are worthy of note in such a publication. I trust we shall be able to reach them in the next Edition. There are also several others, who have hardly received due justice in the way their careers are reviewed in the present Edition. I hope they will be good enough to send us details, giving intimate glimpses into their lives, when returning the biographical forms, for the next Edition.

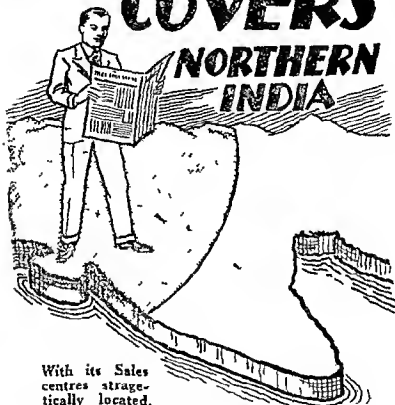

I must take this opportunity to thank most sincerely all those who cooperated in this our first attempt, though I cannot but observe that we did not get the full cooperation, as I had expected. It will be a regular annual publication, and we need the help and cooperation from the public, which is essential in order to make it a more and more useful and thoroughly authentic Reference Book, by revising and enlarging it and improving it in all necessary ways. Constructive criticism and suggestions will be very much appreciated.

Special mention must be made of the help rendered by my friends Miss Jacobeth Rose Samuel B.Sc., who sifted the material collected and Mr R. K. Prabhu, Assistant Editor of the "Bombay Chronicle", who gave very valuable suggestions from time to time and considerably helped me with the proofs.

Gandhi, Mohandas Karamchand, (Mahatma), Author of Satyagraha was born on 2nd October 1869. He is married and has three sons. He was born in a devout and wealthy family in the State of Porbandar for about 25 years. After finishing his schooling in India he went to England to complete his studies. He specialised in law, took a degree and returned to India. An important piece of litigation sent him to South Africa. There he found Indians were being ill treated in the Colony. They were forbidden to own lands, were segregated and placed under various humiliating restrictions. Then and there Mahatma Gandhi took up their cause and began a long struggle for the rights of his race. He became their defender and led them into a course of passive resistance. But when the Boer War came Gandhi enjoined upon his followers to yield. A strike behind the lines in war time, he said, would be equivalent to an act of violence. With the return of peace he again preached his rebellion. He was thrown into jail and his wife and sons with him.

Until two years after the Great War, Gandhi was loyal to the British Crown. He served in the Boer war, was once invalided and mentioned in despatches. The outbreak of the European war found him in London. There he at once organised a volunteer corps and returned to India because of ill health and recovered.

In a critical moment in 1918, Gandhi threw himself into the recruiting movement with such energy that the quota of recruits called for nine months was accomplished in seven months. Then the armistice put a stop to these proceedings. But after peace came the Rowlatt Act of 1919 which set India afire, and led to the 'Punjab disturbances' and Jallianwalla tragedy. At the top of all came the Khilafat trouble which completely shattered the confidence of Gandhi in the present.

administration and he began his non violent non co operation movement. He was sentenced to six years imprisonment in March, 1922 but was released in 1924 for reasons of health. He undertook a fast of 21 days on account of Hindu Muslim dissensions in 1924. In 1925 he was elected President of the Congress. He inaugurated Civil Disobedience movement in April 1930 and was interned in May. Was released in January next year and negotiated an agreement with the Viceroy and suspended Civil Disobedience movement. Gandhi attended the second Round Table Conference as the sole representative of the Indian National Congress and returned to India in 1932. He was again interned. He undertook a fast unto death as a protest against the introduction of communal electorates for the depressed classes in 1932. The Hindus held urgent consultations, hammered out an agreement and the Communal Award was altered. Then Gandhi broke his fast. Another fast followed as a penance for the Hindus being lethargic in the matter of carrying out Harijan uplift programme. Mahatma Gandhi undertook in 1934 an All India tour preaching the cause of the Harijans. And because a Reformist volunteer assaulted a Sanatanist at Ajmer, Mahatma undertook a fast of one week as a penance in August 1934.

Horniman Benjamin Guy, Journalist and Nationalist Leader, Editor in Chief "The Bombay Sentinel" b July 17, 1873, seventh and youngest son of William Horniman, Paymaster in- Chief, Royal Navy, and Sarah Esther, daughter of Thomas Foster, Engineer in Chief, Royal Greek Navy, Educ
 Received early education from mother, who grounded him in English, Latin, French, Mathematics and Music, afterwards
 Portsmouth Grammar School and Queen's Service House, was educated for Army and passed Preliminary Examination for Royal Military Academy, Woolwich, but at age of 18, decided against military career and entered business as Private Secretary of the late H F B Lynch, Esqr, in City of London, traveller and authority on Eastern questions, afterwards M P for Ripon, Yorkshire, after one year in business spent in discovering that unpunctuality is thief of time, turned to stage for a more congenial atmosphere, and for two years toured England, Scotland, Ireland and Wales with Louis Calvert's Shakespearian Repertoire Company and other companies, playing many and varied parts

At age of 21, settled down in Journalism as reporter on "Southern Daily Mail" Portsmouth in 1894 Became Editor of that paper 1897. In 1900 joined staff of "Morning Leader," London, as Asst Editor, subsequently was on staffs on London "Daily Express," "Daily Chronicle" and "Manchester Guardian"

In April 1906, joined Calcutta "Statesman" as News Editor and Assistant Editor and immediately earned fame in Bengal as author of articles following investigation of Hindu Moslem riots in Eastern Bengal (Comilla and Mymensingh Districts), in which local officials were charged with communal favouritism and responsibility for disorders. Was responsible for many changes in get up and display of "Statesman" and revolutionised reporting and news editing in Calcutta. Attended Delhi Durbar as Special Correspondent in 1911 and received intimation of His Majesty's high approval of accounts in the "Statesman" from Lord Stamfordham, the King's Private Secretary. Also received Delhi Durbar Medal. In October 1912 resigned from "Statesman" and in January 1913 came to Bombay to start "The Bombay Chronicle" at invitation of Sir Phirozeshah Mehta. Conducted that journal until April 1919, when he was arbitrarily deported by Lord Lloyd, Governor Bombay, under Defence of India Act, though the war ended six months previously, following exposure of ineptitude of military authorities in Mesopotamian campaign during the Great War and of atrocities under Martial Law in the Punjab. In the meanwhile had taken leading part in the agitation against the presentation of valedictory address to Lord Willingdon, Governor of Bombay, in the name of citizens of Bombay as also in Home Rule agitation and Satyagraha Movement to protest against passing of the "Black Law" (Rowlatt Act).

Acted as Congress delegate in London in 1919 and 1920 and for six years was continually lecturing and writing in England, Scotland, Ireland and Wales on Indian Cause. All this time was refused passport. In October 1925 obtained passport for France and Italy and after brief stay in Paris took steamer from Marseilles for Colombo, was there refused landing, but after protest to Ceylon Government, was permitted to land with intimation that he would not be allowed to enter British India. His reply to this was to take the Mail for Madras, the same night. Was prevented from landing at Dhanushkodi by order of the Government of India, but again following telegraphic protests to Bombay and Delhi, was allowed to proceed after hours' delay. Received with great enthusiasm in Madras and accorded unparalleled popular ovation in Bombay, where he arrived on Jan 17, 1926.

Rejoined "Bombay Chronicle" as Editor, but resigned in March 1926 owing to differences with Directors. Elected to Bombay Corporation. Founded "Indian National Herald" in October 1926 and was Managing Editor of that journal until it ceased publication in 1929. Founded "Weekly Herald" in 1930 and conducted it throughout the first Civil Disobedience Movement, writing every week many powerful articles criticising repressive policy and measures of Government. Was Editor of "Daily Herald," Lahore, from July 1931 to Oct 1931. In January 1932 returned to Bombay and took up editorship of "The Bombay Chronicle." Resigned in December 1933 on release of Mr. S. A. Bhevi from Jail. Gave lead to country for abandonment of Civil Disobedience when its failure became obvious. Immediately started "The Bombay Sentinel" (Evening Paper) at invitation of Mr M. N. Cama, who owned the "Bombay Chronicle" Coy., for the purpose of continuing the struggle and continues to do so. The paper is a daily and continues to be so. It is famous for its fearless and outspoken articles, its live news columns and informative comments on foreign news.

In February, 1934, started vigorous campaign against Sutta-Khel gambling in Bombay, which he described as an evil corroding the social life of the City and bringing misery to thousands of poor families. Forceful articles charging the Police with neglect and indifference in dealing with persons openly defying the law, created utmost sensation in City. On April, 28, while investigating this evil, was arrested with 123 other persons in a police raid on Old Sutta Galla.

After prolonged trial proceedings, extending over three months, case ended in triumphant acquittal of Mr Horniman, who conducted his own defence, the Magistrate passing severe strictures on the conduct of the Police and their treatment of Mr. Horniman. The trial attracted wide attention throughout India.

Nayudu, Major Cottari Kankarya, India's Skipper, in the last three Test Matches, played in India against England is considered one of the World's outstanding batsmen, this tall run getter has justly earned the title of the "Indian Jessop" on account of his mighty sixers. He was born on October 31, 1895. Was the first batsman to complete 1,000 runs in the Bombay Quadrangular in which tournament he has represented the Hindus since 1916. He has more than 90 centuries and three double centuries to his credit but his historic and hurricane 153 against the M.C.C. in Bombay in 1926 was extremely remarkable. This 153 in just over one hundred minutes, contained 11 sixers and 13 fours. His earliest activities as a Cricketer were with the Hislop Collegiate High School team at Nagpur. He captained this side later and at the same time led the Modi Cricket Club. He was invited to play for the Hindus in the Bombay Quadrangular Tournament. In 1931 he skippered the Indian Gymkhana Team in England and collected over 1,000 runs, thus acquiring considerable experience of the English conditions. When he was there again the following year as a member of the All India Team the duties of captaincy fell on his shoulders, in the Majority of the games including the Test and he registered 1,842 runs which included six centuries. Besides he is also a medium paced right arm bowler and secured 79 wickets. His fielding was excellent and against Jardine's men last year he maintained a great reputation. Nayudu has made a name for himself in the field of athletics, is considered the best jumper in India at the All India games held in Bombay under the auspices of the Y M C A. He is an A.D.C. to the Maharaja of Indore. Besides being Cricketer he is a keen sportsman and takes a prominent part in shooting, hockey, football, tennis and billiards. Add A D C. to the Maharaja of Indore, Indore.

Major O.K. Nayudu

He has big reputation in England, having been very successful in three seasons, he played there during which he scored 30 centuries and three double centuries and also took all ten wickets three times for Indian Gymkhana. Essentially a bowler, he came into prominence against the M C C in 1926-27, but developed into a prolific run getter while in England. A E R Gilligan considered him to be a brilliant all rounder. Playing at Jullunder he scored a century against Jack Newman at the age of 16. Played in the Bombay Quadrangular Tournament for Muslims. Was the Member of the All India Cricket Team which toured England in 1932. Mr H N Brailsford, well known British Independent Labour Leader, who has made a critical study of the Indian situation and one of the Indian leaders writes as follows in 'Reynolds Weekly' regarding Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru

"Gandhi is in eclipse. It is possible that his party has done its work. An Indian Socialist Party, very young and inexperienced is forming on its Left. But the only man who could lead it adequately is in prison. Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru has now spent, on and off, about seven years in prison never for any act that would be considered an offence in this or any civilised country, never for violence, always for frank and gallant speech, or else for technical disobedience to an official's orders. And yet he has only reached middle life. I met him in prison during my visit to India three years ago, and he is there still. He is a man about whose character one cannot be mistaken. As fearless and honest as he is able, he has stepped out of his class to lead the poorest and most helpless of India's workers, the villagers. Born a Brahman in a wealthy family, he chose, instead of a career that would have led to office and ease, to begin as a Socialist, the struggle against the crushing exploitation of the peasants of North India by the most idle and worthless landlord class in the world. He has against him, therefore, not merely the British officialdom but Indian property also. The Indian Government, in view of the coming election, has inaugurated a sort of truce, and has released most of its political prisoners. But, this man because he is a Socialist, is outside the amnesty."

Udaya Shankar, the well known Indian Dancer, whose performances have won world wide appreciation has brought about the renaissance of the ancient Indian Art of Dancing, his genius was discovered and recognised in Europe by Madame Pavlova, who seeing him dance in London, took him as her partner for the Krishna Radha Ballet, which became, later, the most popular item on her programmes, when a student in London, he had the privilege of giving an exhibition of his dancing in a charity show before King George, His Majesty was so impressed that he was invited and given a Royal audience, later, also had audience with the Kings of Denmark, Norway and Sweden b 1900, s of Pandit Shyam Shankar, Private Secretary to late Maharaja of Jhalwar and a great lover of Art, Udaya's artistic talents showed themselves quite early in his life, as a student he was more of truant and, he says, a vagabond, travelling has been his greatest delight and he considers this world to be too small for him; he received his early education at Ghazipur and later at Benares, having developed a taste in painting, by this time, left Benares and studied for a while in Bombay School of Art, proceeded to England and joined an Academy of Art under the direction of Sir William Rothenstein, and received high distinctions; the entire credit of discovering this "Hidden Jewel" goes to a Bengali lady, who brought about the meeting between two geniuses Madam Pavlova, the famous Russian dancer and Udaya Shankar Madam Pavlova was already on a look out for a dancing partner in her Ballets, and after watching him dance in London, once, she decided to have him, and herself and Udaya Shankar's father, who happened to be in London, took their consent, 1923; Udaya Shankar went with her on the Continent and introduced the dances of Hindustani and Hindu wedding scenes; he was desirous to learn the western dancing, but Pavlova dissuaded him and advised him to improve Indian dancing; he left her to find full scope for his own talents, 1927; after that Udaya Shankar had to face a very hard time, very difficult, but he came out manfully and bravely with the help of his official partner Miss ... his own troupe was ... and to go for want of accommodation. Though while he was trying to find his moorings he received but rebuffs from the Princes and rich Indian people whom he had approached for help, now that he has made a name for himself and his company, his art is getting universal approbation; the perfection achieved by him in his Art is well acknowledged through the extraordinary success of his performances in India and abroad; he is not a denouncer of Western music or dancing, but he is of opinion that it is suitable only for a people living in those regions and that climate and having a civilization and racial traditions entirely different from those of Indian life and experience. Recreations
